Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Indianapolis under the act of March 3, 1879.Hadassah To Get Funds
From Yiddish Talkie
Here Sunday Night

Described by newspaper critics as one of the best Yiddish films, "Milele Efros" will be presented in two shows this Sunday at Keith's Theater, 119 N. Pennsylvania, under the auspices of the Jewish National Fund Council of Indianapolis. Proceeds will be devoted to the Indianapolis Hadassah contribution to the Henrietta Szold Golden Book.

Two shows, the first at 7:30 p. m. and the second at 9:30, have been arranged.

This new screen version of a great play was written by Ossip Dymow, well known playwright. It was directed by Josef Berne, who has made films for MGM and Columbia Pictures.

Berta Gersten, foremost dramatic actress of the Yiddish stage, is in the title role, a role which she made famous throughout America on the legitimate stage. America's leading Jewish comedian Michael Rosenberg, and Ruth Elbaum of the cast of "Pins and Needles" head the film's brilliant supporting cast. An original musical score is by Vladimir Heifetz.

Evansville Zionists To Hear Cantor Glass

Special
EVANSVILLE—The Evansville Zionist District will present Myro Glass, baritone, in a concert of Hebrew, Yiddish and modern Palestinian songs at 8 p. m. Jan. 13 at Adath Israel Synagogue.

Mr. Glass, who has performed on the concert stage for fifteen countries, is cantor at the Beth El Zedek Temple in Indianapolis. Mr. Glass, who devotes most of his time to the Zionist movement, was president of the Indianapolis Zionist District and is honorary vice president of the district now. He is now national chairman of the Palestine symphonic choir project. Miss Pearl Silver will accompany him at the piano.

Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation To Honor
Louis J. Borinstein After 15 Years' Service

Louis Borinstein, retiring president of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, will be honored at a testimonial banquet at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, Jan. 21, at the Columbia Club by the Temple Sisterhood, Temple Brotherhood, the T. Y. P. L. and the Congregation. The principal speaker will be Mr. Borinstein's close friend, Hon. Alfred M. Cohen of Cincinnati.

Mr. Borinstein has been prominent for many years in business and civic affairs in Indianapolis, and served the temple with distinction for fifteen years. After serving five successive terms as president of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Borinstein was reappointed to the city board of zoning appeals. Several years ago he was a member of the National Council of Jewish Federation and Welfare Funds. He also led several Jewish Welfare Fund drive here.

Sidney G. Kusworm of Dayton,

To Speak Here

RABBI BERMAN

Rabbi Morton M. Berman, of Chicago, former assistant to Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, will be the principal speaker at the Jewish National Fund Conference set for Monday, Jan. 20, at Kirshbaum Center. Representatives of the Zionist District, Hadassah, Young Judea, Junior Hadassah and the Kodimo Club will take part in the conference. Also on the program is the showing of "Land Of Promise," a Palestinian movie.

Church Women Told Bias A Smoke Screen

Special
GARY.—Attorney Abe S. Hyman addressed members of the Women's Union at the Central Church last Friday at a meeting held in the church rooms. Speaking on the subject of Judaism, Mr. Hyman said that often political leaders attempt to draw attention to the so called Jewish problem in order to deflect the public's interest from the real issues of the day.

Mr. Hyman was the third of Gary Jewish men to be invited to address the group on various Jewish subjects. Former speakers were Dr. Phillip J. Rosenbloom and Attorney Frank H. Sparber.

LOUIS J. BORINSTEIN

Ohio, widely known for his wit and humor also is on the program. The price will be $1.25 per plate and the affair will be informal. Tickets may be obtained now from Miss M. Forman, Talbot 9806; Mrs. Jack Dee, Wabash 8269; Mrs. Morris Jacobs, Talbot 1838, or Dr. Philip Fichman, Talbot 3200.

What Other Papers Think of U. J. A.'s End

The American Israelite, Cincinnati

American Jews will read with regret the news that the United Jewish Appeal will not function in 1941, and that the Joint Distribution Committee, the United Palestine Appeal and the National Refugee Service will have their own campaigns for funds during the year just started. To the Jews of America the United Jewish Appeal was not only a fund raising institution, but also a symbol of Jewish unity.

The Jewish Exponent, Philadelphia

It is unfortunate that a clash of ideologies and a difference of opinion as to the relative merits of the chief Jewish causes made it imperative for the United Palestine Appeal to undertake a separate drive for 1941. For the past three years it was included in the United Jewish Appeal but the share allotted to it appeared to be quite inadequate to the work that it is expected to do and to the commitments made to the various agencies doing work in Palestine.

The Jewish Ledger, Omaha

The announcement of the United Palestine Appeal, the Joint Distribution Committee, and the National Refugee Service that these three groups have dissolved the United Jewish Appeal and henceforth will conduct separate fund-raising campaigns comes as a serious blow to the hopes of national Jewish unity. Not even the sweet statement that "cordial relations and generous co-operation would continue" can hide the disagreeable fact that these organizations have been so petty and their leadership so inept they no longer can work together. If "cordial relations and generous co-operation" existed, the dissolution would not have come about and to say so is merely an added expression of hypocrisy. . . . The emergency has not decreased but has been heightened. The need for unity is not less but more. Instead of an honest attempt being made to foster an integrated Jewish life, the national leadership has indulged in the old tactics of "pettiness as usual." Compromise on particulars is interpreted as an abandonment of principles.

The Chicago Jewish Chronicle

And it did happen! All the hoping, pleading, and threatening were for naught. The heads of the Joint Distribution Committee were adamant in their decision to cut the United Palestine Appeal allotment in half—and all negotiations were cut off. We shall now see, at this critical hour, American Jewry divided, fighting and competing with one another. A fine spectacle, indeed! Unfortunately those at the helm of the J. P. C. are still of the opinion and viewpoint of the old-time Yahudim to whom the mere mention of Palestine absorbed more refugees during the past few years than vailing conditions nor with facts. They do not care to realize that Palestine absorbed more refugees during the past few years than all other countries combined. These leaders do not give a whoop for the sentiments of a large part of American Jewry and continue their good old ways. Some day they will wake up—and may that day come soon—when that self-appointed leadership is forcibly taken away from them, and men with more liberal minds will assume leadership of American Jewry. The time is long overdue.

The Jewish Herald-Voice, Houston

What these organizations and their leading spirits and paid executive forces, overlook is that their funds are dependent upon the contribution of thousands of American Jews. The propitious time has come for the contributors to these agencies to make their attitude known. We are of the firm belief that unity in Jewish ranks is the foremost problem to be solved in 1941. It is essential that we get together public opinion and force true coordination of overseas relief. This can be done.

The Jewish Transcript, Seattle

Nationally, it means a complete severance of effort. With needs that press like a mountain load, there will not be one drive but two or more. Effort will be divided and we will be the center of jurisdictional disputes that will affect the whole body of Jewry. Efficiency under such conditions cannot be increased.

Mrs. Goodman Is Is Taken By Death

Special

TERRE HAUTE.—Mrs. Caroline Goodman, widow of the late Gustave Goodman, died Friday, Jan. 3, at her home 820 South Center Street. She is survived by two daughters, Misses Rose and Lillie Goodman. Funeral services were held Sunday with Rabbi J. Marshall Taxay in charge and burial was in Highland Lawn cemetery, following which "Minion" was held in the vestry rooms of Temple Israel.

A.Z.A.'s Pallbearers For Irving Berger

Members of A. Z. A. were pallbearers for Irving William Berger, 16, who died Monday after a long illness. Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Berger; a brother, Bernard Charles Berger, and a sister, Gloria Marlene Berger, all of Indianapolis.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Aaron-Ruben funeral home. Rabbi Elias Charry and Cantor Myro Gless officiated. Burial was in the Beth El cemetery.

Councils Would Set Up
Own Budget-Making
Body After U.J.A. End

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK.—A proposal for establishment by the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds of a national advisory budgeting service to "avoid the friction and chaos of competitive appeals" is under consideration by leaders of federations and welfare funds throughout the country following the decision of the major national and overseas agencies to conduct separate campaigns in 1941.

The proposal, advanced by Sidney Hollander of Baltimore, president of the Council, in a letter to presidents of the 202 member agencies, will be one of the major questions acted on when the Council's General Assembly meets in Atlanta, Feb. 1 to 3. Relating the events which led up to the decision of the Joint Distribution Committee, United Palestine Appeal and National Refugee Service not to renew the United Jewish Appeal, Hollander urged local leaders to discuss his proposal and to be prepared to act on it at the General Assembly.

Under Hollander's proposal, the Council would undertake to set up its own advisory budgeting service with the necessary machinery to supply local budget committees with data and recommendations "so that they can make their 1941 decisions a basis of carefully determined needs, rather than as a result of competitive pressure." He suggested that welfare funds await the recommendation of such a body before completing their local budgeting.

FDR Dance Committee Gratified By Response

B'nai B'rith and the Federation of Jewish Women's Clubs this week voiced appreciation for the unprecedented support and enthusiasm from all Jewish organizations in connection with the President's ball for benefit of infantile paralysis sufferers. Already advanced ticket sales are considerably ahead of last year. The spacious Riley room at the Claypool will be the scene of the dance Thursday evening, Jan. 30.

The committee in charge has secured Chic Meyers and his orchestra to play for the dance. There will be several surprise features. Tickets are only $1 per person and can be obtained now from Max M. Farb at Riley 4000 or Talbot 7092 or from Mrs. David Sablosky at Humboldt 2890.

It's the consensus of opinion in Indianapolis that there are a lot of Efroymsens in the city, and if you would have peeked in at the Parkway Bowling Alleys last Sunday morning, this fact would have been amply verified. Art Efroymsen bowled with the Sealskins, while Dick performed for the Courtiers. Then little Charles Jr. appeared as a spectator. Dick's charming wife Carolyn joined the crowd with Jimmie, only to be followed by Mary Efroymsen, who reported that Meyer was too tired to be present. If this representation of "Efs" didn't resemble a "family blitzkrieg," then figures lie!

Morris Goldberg came back this week with better than his average scores to aid the Sealskins in taking three games from the Keglers to break the tie for league leadership. No doubt he'll be holding out for more money again on his contract renewal.

The winner of the beautiful necktie, donated by Dick Efroymsen, was "Sealskin" Falk himself, who luckily tallied games of 204, 223 and 213 for a lofty 640 total. Leo Netzorg, the big hosiery man of Real Silk fame, will be the donor of next Sunday's prize, so, fellows, there's a chance to take a few "socks" at the award!

The team chosen to represent the lodge at the B'nai B'rith tournament at the Bensinger Alleys in Chicago, Ill., Sunday, Jan. 26, will include Sam Kroot, E. Lebowitz, Maxie Kosof, Howard Dulberger and Jack Falk.

The national B'nai B'rith Bowling Congress at the Detroit Recreation Alleys, is scheduled for Feb. 16, and it is our desire to enter and bring to the Hoosier capital some coveted cup as a prize. We have secured silk arm emblems with "B. B., Indianapolis Lodge 58" embroidered on them in blue and red colors, to be worn with white shirts, thus making a patriotic appearance.

We are still trusting to hear from several of the other cities of the state in regard to a state tournament. Dandy idea, don't you think?

Sen. Weiss To Speak At U. H. C. Services

Senator Jacob Weiss will be guest speaker at Friday evening services of the United Hebrew Congregation at 8 p. m. Friday, tonight. His subject will be "An American Jew Speaks." Cantor Albert Cooper will be guest cantor. After services refreshments will be served.

Next Friday evening Rabbi A. E. Miller will give a sermon on "Principles of Judaism."

LEAGUE IN 7TH WEEK

The Kirshbaum Center Intramural Basketball League goes into its seventh round of play Sunday. Last week the Detroit Yellow Jackets edged out the Chicago White Sox, 33 to 31. In the second game the Philadelphia Greenies defeated the Cincy Reds, 33 to 30. The last-place Cardinals defeated the Blues, 32 to 29.

The schedule for Jan. 12 is: 1:30 p. m., St. Louis Cardinals vs. Cincinnati Reds; 2:15 p. m., Indianapolis Blues vs. Detroit Yellow Jackets, and 3 p. m., Philadelphia Greenies vs. Chicago White Sox.

NO NEW SCHEDULE

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
JERUSALEM — The Palestine government has announced that it will not issue an immigration schedule for the period from October 1940, to March, 1941, because more than 8,000 certificates under the previous six-month quota had not yet been used as a result of travel difficulties and the impossibility of reaching Palestine during the schedule period.

McClosky To Sing At Wagner Concert

David Blair McClosky, brilliant American baritone, will be soloist with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra in the Murat Theater at 8:30 tonight when Fabien Sevitzy conducts an all-Wagner program. Mr. McClosky will sing "Evening Star" from Tannhaeuser and Wotan's Farewell from The Valkyries. Other Wagnerian selections on the program include the Tannhaeuser Overture, the Ride of the Valkyries and the Fire Music from The Valkyries, the Flying Dutchman Overture, the Prelude and Liebestod from Tristan and Isolde.

Dies Recommends Bill To Outlaw Bias Mail Matter

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
WASHINGTON. — Legislation which would outlaw such organizations as the German-American Bund and ban distribution of anti-Semitic propaganda through the U. S. mails was recommended in a seven-point legislative program offered to Congress in the report of the Dies Committee.

Anti-Semitic propaganda would be "almost completely eliminated" under a proposed law which would restrict propaganda of foreign origin when its distribution involves costs to U. S. taxpayers. This measure, Dies pointed out, would not only cover the "tons" of German propaganda currently being landed on the West Coast from Japanese ships in ever-increasing amounts, but would also cover much of the output of domestic anti-Semitic and Fascist organizations. He noted that the publications and speeches of such organizations and individuals as William Dudley Pelley, James True, the Christian Front and others repeated almost word for word the releases of the Nazi World Service and other totalitarian organizations.

The Post Office and Justice Departments, while expressing no opposition to the proposal that increased postal rates be placed on propaganda of foreign origin, were skeptical of any great curtailment of the flood of propaganda resulting from such legislation. "Foreign governments are too anxious to get their propaganda message into this country to worry about an increased postage cost, but it might have the effect of hampering some of our penny-ante fuhrers in this country," a Justice Department official said.

Report Meeting Thursday Opens J. C. C. A. Drive

As the "Membership Round-Up," conducted by the Jewish Community Center Association, got under way, approximately 100 workers in the drive were making final efforts to contact prospects.

At the first luncheon report meeting Thursday at the Athenaeum, captains and workers showed great optimism. Similar luncheon meetings will be held Monday and Friday of next week, at 12:15 p. m.

Theodore R. Dann, president of the Association, declared that for the first time in the history of the Association youth has taken a major role in the drive. Anita Cohen and Julian Kiser are co-chairmen of the youth division. Senior co-chairmen are Mrs. Victor Goldberg, Mrs. David Lurvey, Milton Fineberg, Milton Abrahamson and Jack Kammins.

It was announced this week that two orchestra seats to any play or concert will be awarded the individual bringing in the largest number of new members. Prizes will also be given to those bringing in three or more members.

A graphic display of posters, exhibit material, and signs in "Wild West" style coinciding with the theme of the drive has been placed about the building. A blackboard giving current up-to-the-minute reports on the progress of the campaign has been set up in the lobby.

Dr. Samuel Patterson has announced his association with Dr. L. W. Berger, at 723 Main street, Beech Grove, for the general practice of dentistry.

AL SEGAL Speaks on Getting Married

MR. G. M. COHEN, publisher of the Jewish Post of Indianapolis, provides me with something to write about this week. Mr. Cohen editorially suggests that I comment on what Dr. Claude M. Fuess, headmaster of Philips Academy, Andover, Mass., recently said.

Dr. Fuess was speaking before the Boston Congregational Club which is an institution of old New England families. Dr. Fuess, it appears, is troubled about the Yankee blood stream which may get too thin if no new bloods are poured into it.

He said: "What the Yankee needs is reinvigoration. If he remains isolated he is likely to become like the Southern plantation owner in 'Gone With the Wind.' We should not avoid the melting pot, for as it boils over we shall have new Websters and Adamsses to defend our liberties, even though they bear Polish, Italian and Jewish names."

Of course, what Dr. Fuess means is that the old Yankee families should intermarry with Jews as well as with Poles and Italians.

This seems to be a matter that should concern my granddaughter, Ellen, who is already ten months old and who in no time will be thinking of marriage. (Everybody knows how quickly the time runs away and before you know it a ten-months old infant is 21 and getting married.)

So, shortly, Ellen may come to me for advice. I know very well that it is not the custom for girls to go to their grandfathers for advice on love and marriage but I like to flatter myself.

"Grandfather," says Ellen, "you are so wise . . ."

"Ah, ha, Ellen, I bet you are going to ask your grandfather for something. You're probably going to ask me to give you an auto for your 21st birthday. Telling me I am so wise!"

"But, grandfather, you are wise and all I'm going to ask you for is some advice."

"Advice I always have plenty of, Ellen," and I stroke my long gray beard which is the proof of my wisdom. "What's on your mind, Ellen?"

"Grandfather, I'm thinking of getting married."

"Ellen! You! It was only yesterday, it seems, that I was looking at you through the glass case in which they kept the new-born at the hospital. Only yesterday I was delighting at your first smile, though they told me it was only gas on your stomach. Only yesterday I exulted to hear you say da-da. Only yesterday . . ."

"But 21 years have passed, grandfather, and now you're coming to my wedding."

"But, Ellen, I thought you were asking me for my advice first. Even before you get my advice you invite me to the wedding. Perhaps I shall advise you not to marry."

"Oh, I've already decided. I just want to hear you agree with me."

I pinch Ellen's cheek. . . . "You're a smart girl. And who's the fortunate young man?"

"You'll never guess, grandfather."

"I bet his name is Rappoport."

"No!"

"Or Oppenheimer?"

"No!"

"Or Levi? Or Strauss?"

"No! His name is Adams."

"Ellen! . . . Is he Jewish!"

"No! He is one of the Massachusetts Adamsses."

"Ellen! But our Jewish heritage . . . our Jewish identity . . . our Jewish duty to exist. . . I've been writing of that all these years."

"We considered all that—Mr. Adams and I. His first name is Henry. I told him my grandfather always has been so proud of the continuity and quality of his Jewish origin; he has written columns upon columns about that. I felt that I, as your grandchild, should live up to your columns."

"Yes, Ellen, that's the least a child can do for her grandfather."

"But Henry said—he's a biologist—he said the rich Jewish blood should be mixed with other bloods to improve them. He thought a bit of Jewish blood might make good Christians out of many Gentiles. He said that if Jews are as good as they think they are they can fulfill their messianic mission by transfusing their blood among all the peoples."

"But, Ellen, you must consider all the columns I have written to the contrary. We can't go back on the column."

She said Henry was especially worried about the Adamsses needing new blood. He pointed out that they hadn't had a president of the United States in their family since John Quincy Adams' time. His term ended in 1829. There was President John Adams and after him President John Quincy Adams—and since then no more Adams presidents. Henry thought the Adamsses had been keeping too much to themselves. Their line might be thinning out. He said some Jewish blood might help.

"Ellen, it's all too preposterous, presumptuous and impertinent. The idea of asking us to break up our Jewish continuity for the purpose of saving the Adamsses!"

"But, grandfather: Henry says it should also improve the Jews to have their blood mixed with new infusions. He thinks we also have been too much too ourselves. We haven't produced a new prophet in ever so long—unless it's you, grandfather. Henry says it's about time the Jews brought out a prophet again and a little Adams blood might help."

Naturally, I can only feel flattered by Ellen suggesting that I may be a prophet, but I am not to be beguiled from the life-long principles of this column. With my severest frown, I reply. "Ellen, I'll hear no more of this. This column has got to remain faithful to itself."

"But, grandfather, you're coming to my wedding, aren't you? You're going to be our guest of honor. Tell me you'll be there."

I am about to answer, "No," I shall stick to this column, but the little minx gives out the sweet, tinkling laughter by which she always gets out of me whatever she wants. . . . "Surely, dear grandfather, you'll be at my wedding."

I can not say no to the child. I leave it to all the readers: Should I go to the wedding? Should I give my acquiescence to this diversion of the Jewish blood stream?

(There runs through my mind an unbidden thought: "You talk like Hitler. Blood streams! What's the special essence in your blood stream? Keeping it all to yourself?" . . . But I let the thought brood noxiously only for a moment; then I drive it from my mind.)

Perhaps Mr. Cohen can advise me what to do about this.

WE'RE TELLING YOU—Hitler will answer Roosevelt's fire-side chat of December 29 by announcing even more cruel anti-Jewish measures for Nazi-occupied territories. . . . That's to teach the American Jewish warmongers a lesson, say his henchmen. . . . It's true that the Vichy-wash government isn't doing much standing up against Hitler, but did you know that the French food supply these days varies in direct proportion to the friendliness of Vichy's attitude toward Berlin? . . . When no Nazis are listening the Norwegians always call Joseph Torboven, German governor of their country, by the logical sounding nickname Boven. . . . It's logical because in Norwegian—at least, so we're told—the word Boven means "thief." . . . Don't be surprised if it gradually becomes more difficult to get inside dope on Naziland from foreign correspondents back home for a vacation. . . . That is, unless they don't want to go back to their job. . . . For example, Edwin Hartrich, the CBS newscaster who had the temerity to tell the Americans what's really going on in Berlin, has been advised by the Nazi authorities that he would be wiser not to come back to Baddol's bailiwick.

INSIDE DOPE—In the eyes of the Nazi government all Germans who live abroad—they're officially called Auslandsdeutsche—can claim the city of Stuttgart as their home. . . . And don't think that the term Auslandsdeutsche includes only those who have emigrated from Germany. . . . In fact, the leader of the "Germans Abroad," Ernst Wilhelm Behle, was himself born in England and reared in South Africa. . . . In Stuttgart, too, are exhaustive archives in which complete and accurate information on everybody and anybody connected with American industrial, commercial and political life is kept. . . . If, for example, Herr Behle should want to know details on the life history of Yankel Cohen or Mike O'Leary or

Otto Schultz, who may be a machine operator or bookkeeper in some small factory in a little midwestern town, he would be able to get the information without (Continued on Page 5)

Our Film Folk of HOLLYWOOD

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD.—All the thrills and tears of a long career have been squeezed into Sybil Jason's short life. Began acting at the age of three in "Barnacle Bill" . . . hailed as a second Shirley Temple, she arrived from Cape-town . . . appeared in seven pictures . . . then dropped out of the frame. Hasn't been seen since 1937 a victim of poor films and in-judicious management. The other day . . . a last bit of publicity . . . Sybil, now eleven . . . was a passenger on a South African-bound boat.

Strict censorship blots out the condition of German-occupied territories . . . but inklings manage to seep through. An executive received a letter recently from Holland. It informed, "Everything was good here before the Nazis came; now it is very good, but we wish it was good again."

Next comedy for the Three Stooges is tabbed, "I'll Never Heil Again."

All of which brings to mind the incident that occurred at Station WKBO, Harrisburg. When discovering that the time for Hitler's speech would clash with the Jewish Hour, the program director called Rabbi Phillip Bookstaber to ask if he would relinquish his spot. The Doctor affably acquiesced. "Being a member of the Civil Liberties Committee, he believes everyone has a right to speak." "And," he added, "I'll come to the station and listen to Herr Hitler. If he runs short, I'll fill in." At the last minute Adolf's address was cancelled. The rabbi, present, resumed his program, "regretting that Hitler had been cut off."

If you want to crash the Hollywood gates, start as a columnist. We have (or had) on the Filmtown roster: Mark Hellinger, Paul Yawitz, Louis Sobol, Rian James, and Walter Winchell.

Nice ink directing the Marxes. Eddie Buzzell often would have traded for a quiet corner of London. During one scene he tried again and again to make Harpo walk more slowly. "Stalk," he begged, "remember in this shot you're an Indian." "Okay," mumbled the mum Marx, "but I'm not a stalking picture actor!"

Plum of a "witskrieg" is the story being told about the Bundist who returned to his native land. On being shown the wonders of the "new order," he indulged in a bit of boasting. "Out in Hollywood they sometimes have 30,000 people in a picture." "That's nothing," sneered his Nazi pal. "We're doing 'Les Miserables' with thirty million Frenchmen in the cast!"

Tangy Tips:

Benny Goodman, rebelling, says, "Swing musicians made their bedlam, now they'll have to lie in it."

Slapsie Maxie orders a "well-to-do steak."

Curt Bois: "An optimist is a chap who doesn't care what happens just so it doesn't happen to him."

Felix Bressart doesn't care for himself on the screen. "I'm just not my type."

When Author Sam Hoffenstein was asked how he wrote a story about Brazil without seeing the country, he answered dryly, "The same way Dante wrote 'The Inferno'."

The fates of '40 were good to Milton Berle . . . he acquired a new nose, a new contract, and a new novel. Latter rolls off the presses as, "Comedians Don't Laugh."

Did you know Oscar Straus was "bought" out of Vienna with the aid of money from ASCAP?

"Oneg Shabat," following services Friday evening at Temple Israel will be observed in the vestry rooms of the temple, with Mrs. Lawrence Herz Joseph, Mrs. David Rubin, Mrs. Louis A. Shatsky, president of the local section Council of Jewish Women and Mrs. John Tatelman, president of Hadassah Chapter, as hostesses. Included in the services will be the blessing and naming of the twin sons, Howard and Stephen Berkowitz, of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Berkowitz, and of Bruce a Rubin, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Rubin.

At the Sisterhood meeting of Temple Israel, on Jan. 20, the speaker will be Mrs. G. George Fox, wife of Rabbi Fox of South Shore Temple. A box luncheon will precede the meeting.

At the monthly Book Review meeting of the Council of Jewish Women a very interesting and lively discussion followed the review by Robert J. Wolfe of the book "For Whom the Bells Toll," by Ernest Hemingway. Mr. Wolfe, who is a Harvard Senior, was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Wolfe over the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bernheimer have returned from a visit with their children, Dr. and Mrs. L. Benno Bernheimer and family in Chicago. Mrs. Bernheimer had just been to Evansville to attend the funeral of a cousin, Miss Manda Roser.

Harry N. Levin, for many years connected with Levin Bros. of this city, is associating himself with his brother, Leon E. Levin who moved to Indianapolis with his family about a year ago and is established in the wholesale business there. Mrs. Levin and son Robert will follow later on.

On motion of the Government, the remaining charges against five of the seventeen members of the Christian Front "Action Committee," indicted last Feb. 9, were nolle prossed and the defendants were released.

The Editor's Chair:

As a prophet it seems that I am next only to Mr. Segal, conductor of the column, "Plain Talk," which appears weekly in The Post.

For it was only about two weeks ago, Dec. 20 to be exact, that I predicted that "Mr. Segal probably will read the notice of the speech Friday, and no doubt over the week-end will write his column, 'Plain Talk,' devoting it to Fuess' talk. . . . So in several weeks you can read Mr. Segal's quaint interpretation . . . right here in your own Jewish Post."

And sure enough, as you can see on page 5, our prophecy came true. And as if to add to our vanity, Mr. Segal even mentions our name, which is something indeed. And as if this were not enough, the wise Mr. Segal asks our advice. "Perhaps Mr. Cohen can advise me what to do about this."

But does Mr. Segal need advice on the particular question his granddaughter's coming marriage has posed? For he has no alternative but to bless the union. Ellen did not go to him before she had lost her heart, "Grandfather, what shall I do?" No, she went to him in her womanly cunning, after the nuptials were practically a "fait accompli." She wants him to come to the wedding. She did not ask him if she should marry.

But probably what Mr. Segal is trying to do is to enervate me into a statement on intermarriage, or at least into my answer to a problem which he knows is unanswerable. But, since I have no grey beard to stroke or to show as evidence of my wisdom, I hasten to place my neck in the noose.

Intermarriage, whether an evil or not, we shall always have with us. As long as Jewish boys and girls mingle with non-Jewish boys and girls, some of them will fall in love, and then woe unto him who would try to break them asunder. For like Laocoon, the more one struggles against love, the deeper and deeper is one enmeshed.

Which of course is human nature. And which of course is what those who would outlaw intermarriage fail to consider.

If we concede that there is nothing we can do to preclude intermarriages, then we come to the next step. How shall we treat those that intermarry? And here (Continued in last column)

Funds, Federations Menace To Hold of National Groups

THAT it required the peaceful demise of the United Jewish Appeal to force the leaders of the Council of Jewish Welfare Funds and Federations to make their first significant national move in their history is ample commentary on the calibre of leadership in American Jewry.

Edgar Kaufmann, he of General Jewish Council fame, "used" the Federation and Welfare Funds to force the American Jewish Committee, the American Jewish Congress, the B'nai B'rith and the Jewish Labor Committee to meet together.

Now the dissolution of the U. J. A. is forcing the Federations and Welfare Funds again.

All these moves could have been effected at least two years ago, and possibly even years before that, but because of the absence of any bold leadership, the Federations and Welfare Funds had to wait until they were just forced to act.

The new action is the proposal by Sidney Hollander, president of the Council of Jewish Welfare Funds and Federations, that the body set up its own allocating committee to study the needs and advise the welfare fund cities (some 200, including almost every major community) how to distribute the money they raise for non-local needs.

The organizations who at present dominate the American Jewish scene might begin to worry, because this first creaking of bones in the Welfare Fund group unquestionably means that it is going to assume its rightful leadership, now that it will get this first taste of its own power and ability.

Don't Borrow The Money, But—

LIKE AIR and water, Kirshbaum Center and the Communal Building are essential to the healthy life of the Indianapolis Jewish community.

But like air and water, too many of us have been content to take these two splendidly-managed institutions too much for granted.

All this is in introduction to the statement that you should join the Jewish Community Center Association, which operates the two buildings.

Anyone who read over the prospect list for the drive would have thought that he was reading an honor roll of the city's leading Jewish citizens.

It is difficult to fathom the mind of the substantial Jewish man who can afford every luxury but who for either real or imaginary reasons, refuses to join the J. C. C. A.

Were the situation to rise where the J. C. C. A. would be forced to close down, then these careless individuals would be among the first to rush to its rescue. But because the programs of the two buildings function so smoothly as to hardly ever come before the public eye from a structural standpoint, he is often prone to forget that the institutions need not only his financial support, but his moral support as well.

The J. C. C. A. does not wish to put its memberships on any basis of sympathy or charity. It feels, and rightly so, that it offers services which have more than a marketable value, in the same manner as merchandise or food. These services range from a Forum series to gymnasium facilities, to a well-stocked library, to a symphony hour, to all manner and kind of social and cultural and intellectual activities, and lastly, to a common meeting ground, both physically and religiously for all parts of the community.

If you are broke, don't go out and borrow the money to join Kirshbaum; but if you aren't broke, then join the J. C. C. A., and don't make the workers spend more time than you are worth arguing and answering your weak alibis or hypocrisy.

Greek Language Papers Cable About Heroism of Jewish Colonel, Translated in The Jewish Civic Ledger of Worcester, Mass.—Of the Greeks that have fallen gloriously for the Fatherland, the newspapers have given the greatest praise to Colonel Murdoch Freezis. This Colonel, an Israelite, from Chalchis, showed unexcelled heroism. His heroism is being characterized as "superbly inspirational."

He is being compared with the legendary Colonel Velisariou (Balkan Wars). He was continually leading his evzone and infantry in bayonet charges crying, "Forward, my sons, for God and Country."

The widow of the fallen hero, upon learning of the death of her beloved husband, sent a telegram expressing her patriotic sentiments to Premier Metaxas and closed the letter with a "urrah" for the Fatherland and the King.

Premier Metaxas congratulates the widow of the forgotten Murdoch Freezis and at the same time ordered that immediate State succor be given to the orphaned children of the hero.

Anshe Emeth Congregation, Youngstown, O., Says It With Poetry—

Why don't you treat me like the Electric Light Bill?

I too, mean light—for darkened lives.

Why don't you treat me like the Telephone Bill?

I too, stand for that which connects—the present with the past.

Why don't you treat me like the Coal Bill?

I am the symbol of Jewish warmth and motive power.

Why don't you treat me like the Grocery Bill? I represent that which nourishes the Jewish people and gives them strength.

Why don't you treat me like the Clothes Bill?

I am the reminder of that clothing of the spirit which is the Jew's finest ornament.

Who Would Criticize Ladies For Playing Mah Jong, Not The Chicago Jewish Chronicle.—We have been urged on numerous occasions to begin a campaign against the excessive playing of Mah Jong among Jewish women who, it was pointed out, sit for hours at a time in a smoke-filled room, listening to the nerve-racking clicking of the tiles, which is not the best sort of recreation for Jewish matrons. They become cross, cranky, and jumpy. At the slightest provocation these Mah Jong adherents lose their self control and become quarrelsome and often abusive. Life-long friends and neighbors become embittered and insulting because of a misplay or an oversight; children are neglected because of "nerves;" husbands scolded and fed on "canned" dinners. All because of the Mah Jong infatuation. But who is brave enough to dare question the "wisdom" of fair lady in the choice of her recreation? Anything done in moderation is not harmful, but since when does milady practice moderation?

Says Convention Big Success

To the Editor:

We had a fine turnout and a very successful convention at the first annual intra-city convention of Indianapolis Young Judaea. About ninety-eight people participated, including a few representatives of Hadassah, the Indianapolis Zionist District and the Jewish Educational Association. Seventy-five of the participants were children, members of the various Young Judaea Clubs.

The sessions began at 9:30 a. m. and lasted until 5:30 p. m. with intermissions between sessions and a half-hour intermission at 2 p. m. There was a remarkable interest and enthusiasm displayed by all the children as was evidenced by their participation in the various discussions. The results surpassed all expectations.

Especially gratefulness is felt by all to Mrs. Lewis Levy, who gave so much of her time and energy to planning and arranging the affair.

The committee feels proud of this convention and is looking forward to the other activities planned by Young Judaea.

ARTHUR HOLLANDER,
President Indianapolis Young Judaea Council.

FORT WAYNE

Lorraine, Ohio, Miss Cele Whitman and Harry Diamond of Chicago, Miss Jane Dole of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Maier and daughter Charlene of Decatur, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mayer of Berlin, Germany, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Maier and Wilday Miller of this city. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Sam Edlow of Cottage avenue have moved to Canton, Ohio, where Mr. Edlow will be identified with a branch of the Hillman Company. Mr. Edlow is the son of Dr. and Mrs. B. M. Edlavitch and Mrs. Edlow is the daughter of Dave Schwartz.

is the crux of a very delicate question. If we treat the newlyweds as criminals or outcasts, as so many advise, then naturally the Jewish partner will be estranged, and exactly what was predicted by the pessimists comes about. A Jew is lost to the community. But in instances where those who would ostracize the marriage are kept at a distance, there is a good chance for a surprisingly fine Jewish home.

I do not advise intermarriage. I even think that it takes an exceptionally strong person to make a success of intermarriage. But what I do contend is that it is a grave error to attack intermarriage as if an irreparable misdeed has been committed, when the only offense happens to be one to which all of us must at one time or another plead guilty—that of love. If love be treason, to paraphrase a famous saying, make the most of it. Even the Catholic Church, as strictly as it governs its devotees, sees so many of its youngsters marry out of the church.

But if it's advice that Mr. Segal wants, I would suggest that he gently avoid the subject of intermarriage, for although logic may be on his side in whatever he says, no Orthodox Jew will agree with him, and many Conservative Jews will take issue with him, and many Reform Jews will call him to task, saying he did not go far enough.
